Lot 295. The correct description is as follows: 1922 (12 June) Dail Eireann cheque to Charles Russell, Director of Civil Aviation for £82.14s.2d signed by General Richard Mulcahy, Chief of Staff of the Provisional Government Army. It is believed this was to cover the cost of transporting back to Ireland an aeroplane. During the Anglo-Irish Treaty talks of 1921, a Martinsyde Type A Mark II biplane was purchased by a group of supporters in England and put on 24-hour standby at Croydon Airport to allow Michael Collins to escape back to Ireland if the talks failed. The plane was not needed for this mission, and it became the first aircraft of the new National Army Air Service arriving (by sea) in June 1922. A unique document relating to the talks.

Lot 521. The illustration is by Edward Ardizoni and the signed by Simon Campbell who also wrote the inscription.

Lot 535. Estimate changed to €500 to €700 (£415 to £580 approx.)

Lot 557 is First Edition Third Impression, 1966.
